$1.645 Million To Be Granted Through The Denver Post Season To Share presented by DaVita

DENVER, CO - February 8, 2019 - The results for The Denver Post Season To Share presented by DaVita were announced today - $1,645,000 will be granted to 54 local nonprofit organizations that will be named in early April. Thanks to 4,000 donors and a generous matching grant from the hometown company DaVita, this will make a significant impact on thousands of children, families and individuals through programs focusing on the areas of children and youth, health and wellness, homelessness and hunger.

Through The Denver Post Community Foundation, these grants will strengthen metro Denver by preparing children and youth for success in the classroom and in life, protecting children and families in need with medical care, housing families and individuals in need of a permanent home, and nourishing those who experience hunger.

"We are so fortunate to have such a giving community and are grateful for all of the donations to this year's campaign," said Tracy Ulmer, president and CEO of The Denver Post Community Foundation. "The impact will be substantial and thousands of lives in metro Denver will be changed for the better with $1.645 million in grants being distributed."

The largest gift to this year's campaign was from MDC/Richmond American Homes Foundation.
